Strike of Miners Likely to Follow Court Injunction

Telegram From Union Leaders Says Observance of Court Order Will Break Wage Agreement.

INJUNCTION NOT YET PUT INTO PRACTICE

Judge's Orders Forbid Operators From Withholding Union Dues From Miners' Pay Envelopes.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Indianapolis, November 1.—A nationwide strike of coal miners seemed inevitable tonight if operators heed the injunction issued by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, which proscribed the "checkoff" of union dues.

A telegram sent late today from headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America after it had been definitely learned that the injunction was not yet in effect, advised union officials to regard discontinuance of the "checkoff" as breaking the existing wage agreement.

The telegram, signed by President John L. Lewis, Vice President Phillip Murray and Secretary William Green, said:

"Any negotiation or settling aside of any part or section of this agreement, including the section providing for the checking off of dues and assessments, can not be regarded as other than a violation of the agreement, and should be treated accordingly by the district officers and local unions."

Strike Only Weapon.

While no course of conduct for union officials was outlined by the telegram, it was said authoritatively that the international officers regarded the strike as the union's only weapon to enforce a contract. The telegram was sent to officials in sixteen states, where the checks-off provision obtains and where $50,000 of the $50,000 union miners are employed.

The text of the telegram follows:

"Strike of Telephones.

"As a result of the telegrams between the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators in the fall of 1919 it was suggested by the government of the United States the miners and the operators submit all their differences to a commission appointed by the president of the United States, said commission to have full authority to render an award covering every proposition involved. The United Mine Workers agreed to this program and the commission in due time rendered an award which they decided must be written into the form of an agreement by and between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America, to be in full force and effect until March 31, 1922.

"Following the rendition of this award by the United States Bituminous coal commission, functioning under governmental authority, the president of the United States in a letter addressed to the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America commanded both sides to meet in joint conference and duly execute such agreement as directed by the bituminous coal commission. This was done and the agreement was duly signed in New York city, on March 31, 1922. Any abrogation or setting aside of any part or section of this agreement, including the section providing for the checking off of union dues and assessments, can not be regarded as other than a violation of the agreement and should be treated accordingly by the district officers and local unions within your jurisdiction."

The states into which the message was sent were Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Wyoming, Montana and Washington. The message did not go to

40,000 SWING PAST IN GREAT PARADE

Spirit of Solemn Memorial Broods Over Second Day of Great Convention of Legion.

BY CHARLES PHELPS CUSHING.
Written for the United News.

Kansas City, Mo., November 1.—Why they call this big reunion of allied veterans of the world war a convention—a convention of the American Legion—may yet be disclosed Wednesday, perhaps, on the last day of the session. But Tuesday night saw two of the three days set apart for the reunion already sped past, and the only business of such importance thus far transacted has been that of naming New Orleans as the legion's meeting place for 1922. The rest of the time has gone mostly to celebrations, some of them wild and jubilant, some of them solemn.

As for vivid and sudden contrasts, nothing can touch the surprises of this reunion. Monday night culminated in a celebration hilarious enough for Armistice day, a carnival of life and drum music and war whoops, cow bells and tin horns and confetti. Its date should have read November 11.

But Tuesday, after a short early session in convention hall, which opened with a three-minute stampede of noise to welcome Marshal Foch and General Pershing, the legionaries adjourned to the big plaza in front of the Union depot, and there the mood of the vastest throng this part of the country has ever seen turned into an observation of Memorial day. The date should have been May 30, and the bright May sunshine that sparkled on the scene made the illusion perfect.

Was Memorial Day.

A Memorial day this, which may go down in history as the greatest America ever knew. A galaxy of notables such as may never again be gathered, spoke to a throng, which, at the least, numbered more than 100,000, such a crowd as has never assembled before for an American Memorial day observance.

Long before the legionaries adjourned their session in convention hall, a throng had packed the station plaza and had spread itself.

STRIKERS ARE BOUND OVER BY JUDGE WINN

The Constitution is in receipt of a letter from Hon. J. Gordon Jones, of Cordele, in which he states a story from Cordele published in Sunday's Constitution, to the effect that Judge Z. H. Winn has been bound over to the Crisp superior court, with three strikers on charges of burning an A. B. & A. trestle near Hatley, was an injustice to Judge Winn.

The hearing was held before Judge Winn, according to Mr. Jones, and he bound over the three men to the superior court. The mistake in including Judge Winn's name among those held for the higher court, evidently occurred in the transmission of the special by telegraph.

It would seem that The Constitution in publishing this story unwittingly did Judge Winn an injustice and this statement of the facts is therefore gladly made. Judge Winn is one of Crisp county's best-known citizens, and in addition is admired by a large circle of friends throughout the state.

While police Tuesday night were holding two negroes in connection with the fatal injury of W. G. Kay, prominent Atlantan, when he was struck Monday night by an automobile, two other persons were run down and painfully injured Tuesday by automobiles. In one of Tuesday's accidents the identity of the driver of the automobile was not learned.

The two negroes held in the death of Mr. Kay are Quincy Hill, 96 Chestnut street, and Jesse Burkhardt, 130 Gilmer street. The police on Tuesday also announced the capture of a big red automobile, which is said to have been the one which killed Mr. Kay's death.

Investigation disclosed that the car belonged to Dr. J. N. Alford, owner of a chemical plant manufacturing plant on West Cain street and part owner of the garage from which the car is alleged to have been stolen on Halloween night.

Mr. Kay was crossing Peachtree street, in front of the Peachtree Inn, when he was run down and struck by the car which was said to have been running 40 miles an hour. The automobile did not stop, but increased its speed, and was finally lost in spite of being chased for 10 blocks by a car which passed at the time.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, pending

Body of "P. Mache"
Found in Wood Box
By Pinkerton Sleuth

Chicago, November 1.—A Pinkerton detective, guarding furniture moved into a moving picture exhibitor's office, unearthed a gruesome find Tuesday.

He was Edgar F. Fellows, who followed his nose when the watchman's job got on his nerves.

He wandered into the deserted third floor of an adjoining building, where the sole article of furniture was a huge wooden box.

Brushing the dust from the top he peered in and found a grinning skeleton, later identified as P. Mache.

Regular police were called in, and viewed the body. One of them mustered up courage for a searching look, and even touched it.

He saw stamped on the chest the words: "Paper Mache."

Dealers in lodge equipment had formerly used the room, it was learned later.

PRESIDENT NAMES ADVISORY STAFF AT ARMS MEETING

Twenty-One Included in Advisory Committee, While Thirty-Four Experts Will Provide Data.

FOUR WOMEN INCLUDED ON CHIEF COMMITTEE

Eight Army Officers and Eight Naval Officers Are Placed on Staff of Technical Experts.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 1.—President Harding completed selection of the American delegation to the armament conference today by the appointment of an advisory committee of 31 to act with the four principal delegates and a technical staff of 34 to provide data and expert opinion on military, naval and Far Eastern questions.

"Only a miracle can save the conference," it was admitted in political circles.

Not only does a deadlock exist on the question of Ireland's allegiance to the British crown, with neither side giving the slightest indication of a willingness to concede an inch on that principle, but the government now claims that Sinn Fein has rendered the task of the conciliators more difficult than ever by refusing to accede to Great Britain her future right to control the seas surrounding Ireland.

George Sutherland, a former senator from Utah and former president of the American Bar association, was designated chairman of the advisory committee, which will also number among its members Secretary Herbert C. Hoover, General John J. Pershing, Rear Admiral W. L. Rodgers, President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and President Charles S. Barrett, of the Farmers' Union. Four members of the committee are women.

In the group of selected technical advisers Major General James G. Harbord, deputy chief of staff under General Pershing, heads the list of eight army officers, while Admiral Robert E. Coontz, chief of operations is at the top of a similar staff of officers of the navy. Associated with them will be twelve officials of the state department, headed by John Van A. MacMurray, chief of the Far Eastern division, and a half dozen men selected from other executive departments and from outside the government service.

While police Tuesday night were holding two negroes in connection with the fatal injury of W. G. Kay, prominent Atlantan, when he was struck Monday night by an automobile, two other persons were run down and painfully injured Tuesday by automobiles. In one of Tuesday's accidents the identity of the driver of the automobile was not learned.

The speaker was a small man, with a square jaw and a rasping voice—Vice Admiral Kanji Kato, naval advisor on the Japanese arms delegation. Fighting his way in English, assisted now and then by his aides, both of whom are Harvard graduates, Admiral Kato forcefully discussed the forthcoming arms conference with a representative of the United Navy.

"I am not a diplomat, but a sailor," said Kato, "but I am enough of a man to realize that war is a foolish business and I wish the time would come when we could say 'enough.'

"I believe we are on the verge of that full realization," he added.

"I hope for and look forward to an equitable agreement among the conferees which shall make reduction of navies possible. I speak from the navy man's point of view. I believe that the reduction of naval armament is not only advisable but thoroughly practical."

Wants World Court.

Kato indicated further that he believed there should be created an agency—an international court, for example—to settle international disputes peacefully. Once such an institution were established he said, Japan would not hesitate to disarm.

He spoke of the basis of reduced and limited armaments now under preparation by the United States government.

Kato indicated that Japan would have a definite, equitable relativity policy of her own to propose to the other powers.

"Our own stand in this conference is not one of craftiness or bargaining," the admiral said. "We are here in the sincere hope of coming to some satisfactory agreement with the other powers."

stration, Chairman Hull declared that "the reactionary group of the republican party executed a new mortgage on it last year and when it went into power last March it had no vestige of policy—no program except to carry out the wishes of the privileged group which financed its campaign."

SELECTION PLEASES CONGRESSMAN.

Washington, November 1.—Selection of Cordell Hull as chairman of the democratic national committee was warmly approved today by democrats in congress, especially by members of the house in which he served 14 years.

House democrats called a conference for tomorrow at which resolutions will be adopted commanding the action of the committee in putting Mr. Hull at its head, and "congratulating the party."

Just after announcement of the meeting was made in the house, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the democratic leader, obtained permission to print in The Congressional Record an article by Mr. Hull on "The Economic Consequences of the Defeat of the Peace Treaty."

During most of his long service in the house Mr. Hull was a member of the ways and means committee, and regarded by republicans and democrats alike as an authority on taxation laws.

Mr. Hull was defeated in the house in the last campaign largely, his friends said, because of his determination to get out and fight for others without staying in his Tennessee district to look after his own affairs.

IS NATIVE TENNESSEAN. Chattanooga, Tenn., November 1.

Judge Cordell Hull, the new chairman of the national democratic committee, is 50 years old, having been born in Overton county, Tennessee, October 2, 1871, his present home being at Carthage, Smith county. After attending school in Ohio, young Hull graduated from the law department of Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn. In his early life he was a farmer and lumber dealer. He was appointed judge of the fifth Tennessee judicial circuit by the governor and elected to succeed himself, but resigned to make the race for congress, which he entered in 1906 and remained until defeated last November by Wynne S. Clouse, a republican, in the landslide which carried Tennessee into the republican column.

Judge Hull was among the most conspicuous men in congress during his long service in the house, his assignment to the ways and means committee establishing for him a place as one of the democratic leaders.

Judge Hull served in the Spanish-American war as captain of the Fourth Tennessee volunteers.

The selection of Judge Hull was especially pleasing to leaders of the democratic party in Tennessee, because of his popularity and well-known energy in party affairs. Eugene H. Williams, member of the state legislative committee, said here tonight that the selection of Mr. Hull meant that the party in the state would be harmonized and that it would again be found in the democratic column in the next election.

WANTS ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

New York, November 1.—An annual conference of national and state leaders of the democratic party designed to clarify and place before the public the party's position on issues of the day, is being urged upon the democratic national committee by Franklin D. Roosevelt, gene H. Williams, member of the state legislative committee, said here tonight that the selection of Mr. Hull meant that the party in the state would be harmonized and that it would again be found in the democratic column in the next election.

Edward White, Jr., well-known Atlanta citizen and an employee of the city government for many years, was knocked down and considerably bruised late Tuesday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Robert H. Goodhart, aged 20, or 16 Walker terrace.

The accident occurred at Peachtree and Walton streets during the hours of heaviest traffic.

Goodhart was driving the car of his father, Dr. Harry Goodhart, prominent business man.

After receiving treatment at Grady hospital, Mr. White was able to walk to his office at the city hall.

The accident was investigated by Police Captain A. J. Holcombe. At the request of Mr. White, no case was made against the driver.

Young Goodhart was fined $5 in police court on August 27 on a charge of reckless driving preferred by Motorcycle Policeman J. S. Melton.

Gerald Morris, of 88 Ormond street, was knocked unconscious Tuesday when struck by an unidentified automobile as he attempted to cross Whitehall street at Mitchell street to apprehend the car and its driver as a victim was unable to furnish a description.

HOUSE ADOPTS REPORT ON BILL FOR GOOD ROADS

JAPAN IS ANXIOUS TO LIMIT HER NAVY

whereby the possibility of wars will be made remote if not absolutely eliminated. There is no benefit either to the victor or the vanquished in war. And having learned this lesson, we sincerely believe the coming conference will be a success."

Is Not Specialist.

With the Anglo-Japanese alliance and the open-door policy in China he said, "I have nothing officially to do. I am not a scholar or a political specialist. But I have observed my country's policies with regard to China and I am convinced that we heartily welcome free and open competition of all nations in China. Her prosperity is our prosperity. We want to see China maintain her full independence. For in so far as she is independent she will be prosperous and that is all Japan desires."

Of the definite abandonment of the Anglo-Japanese treaty and the substitution of some other blanket agreement, Kato declined to say anything, because he believed the discussion of legal questions should be left to the chief Japanese delegates.

Will Be Real Test.

"But we will say this," he added. "We must all live up to whatever agreements we may make at the conference. It will be a real test of international associations.

If anyone still thinks that the wealth of a nation is measured by the amount of gold it has, let him realize the world has learned that by war the wealthy men have been unable to gain more wealth.

"Skeptics may regard the coming conference as premature or impotent, but the Japanese people, including myself, are earnestly hopeful of definite results."

"Perhaps we shall be unable to come to any written agreement, and go back to our homes just good friends. But the conference will have proved to the world that nations can come together, lay their cards on the table, discuss plain facts and emerge from the discussion equipped with a little better understanding of each other's aims."

BRITISH RESOLVED TO CUT ARMAMENT

New York, November 1—British delegates to the conference on limitation of armaments will go to Washington resolved that, short of compromising the safety of the empire or its security, they will go to almost any length to meet other great naval powers in a mutual and proportionate effort to relieve their people from the burden of competitive armament.

This Declaration was made today by Lord Lee, of Farnham, first lord of the British admiralty and one of the official delegates of his country, who arrived on the Olympic with other delegates to the conference from Italy, China and Japan.

Referring to the world war, Lord Lee said he had been convinced for years that Germany meant mischief and added that the lessons learned by those learned from Germany.

Has Learned Lesson.

"The world," he asserted in a prepared statement, "has learned a wider lesson still—that militarism, wherever situated, and however entrenched, is a menace to civilization, and must be given notice to quit."

"That is what brings us to Washington, and if, as I trust, we all go there in a spirit not merely of hope and sincerity, but fixed determination to convert the president's lofty aspiration into a practical working agreement, the war will not have been fought in vain."

"So far as I am concerned, and here I speak not only as the responsible head of the British admiralty, but also as one of the official delegates, I come in a spirit of quiet confidence that the results of this conference will be such as amply to justify President Harding's far-sighted initiative and, personally, I am not prepared even to contemplate the possibilities of failure. To do so would be to assume that the world was afflicted with an incurable insanity and could not be restrained from suicide."

Italy Willing.

"Italy," according to Senator Carlo Schanzer, in a statement issued on landing, "has accepted most willingly the invitation from the United States to take part in the conference."

The undertaking of President Harding, he added, "constitutes an historical fact, the importance of which has not been misunderstood by anyone."

"America, calling together the people of Europe and Asia to discuss questions of world interest, proclaims the principle that all mankind constitutes one great organization, and that if we want to enable this great organization to realize its historical destiny, we must consider the questions concerning the different peoples not exclusively, but from a general point of view, remembering that all peoples have an equal right to develop themselves and to progress."

China Ready.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese minister to Great Britain, who heads the Chinese delegation, declared China would do its share toward making the conference the success that the entire world hoped it would be.

"One of its objects," Dr. Koo said, "is peace, and peace is the utmost desire of the Far East. Stabilization of China and recognition of her rights and liberties must be obtained," he declared, "and we appreciate the importance of the outcome of this conference."

Other delegates voicing confidence in the outcome of the conference were Count Constantini, of Italy; the Right Hon. V. D. Srinivasarao Sastry, of India, a member of the British delegation, and General Military, expert to the Japanese delegation.

Delegates Met.

The delegates were met at quarantine by representatives of the state department and officers of the army and navy.

At the pier delegations from Italian, British, Chinese and Japanese societies greeted the nation's guests at the pier.

KIWANIANS HEAR TALK ON CANCER
BY DR. CLARK

Ten people die in the United States every hour from cancer. Atlanta Kiwanians were told Tuesday at their weekly luncheon by Dr. James J. Clark, local X-ray specialist, who made an address in the interest of the anti-cancer movement.

"We know from records that cancer has existed throughout the life period of our race," the specialist said. "Only during the past twenty years have statistics been available to prove the great mortality from the type of disease. Our knowledge of cancer today, while incomplete as to the cause, is gradually assuming concrete form, and with the great amount of research being done, we hope to obtain absolute evidence regarding the cause and cure."

"We now know that early cancer completely removed never returns. Therefore it can be cured early. It is not contagious or infectious. It is our purpose to attempt to educate the physician as well as the layman to recognize the early signs of the disease."

Colonel B. L. Bugg presided at the luncheon, at the request of President Walter Barnwell. The Griffith class of harpists furnished music.

Another entertainment feature was offered by a company headed by Princess Oyapela, daughter of a Creek Indian chief of Oklahoma.

In China pupils in schools study their lessons aloud and stand with their backs to the teacher while reciting.

THE Eden of Louisiana" is what the Acadians called the beautiful Bayou Teche country near New Orleans. With its live oaks, hanging moss and picturesquely plantations it is as fragrant and charming today as when Longfellow's beautiful heroine sighed for her lover under the moss draped oak that bears her name.

Stop over in New Orleans on your Sunset Way to California and revel in the ways and byways of this fascinating Southern City. You can visit the old French quarter—see relics of the Spanish regime—explore busy markets—dine at quaint restaurants—visit the Haunted House and the Duelling Oak and enjoy a hundred delightful experiences.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1921.

CARLISLE TAKES CHARGE OF STATE FRUIT EXCHANGE

J. G. Carlisle, newly-elected secretary and treasurer and general manager of the Georgia Fruit Exchange, has actively assumed charge of the Atlanta office of the exchange.

The Georgia Fruit Exchange was particularly fortunate in securing Mr. Carlisle as general manager, as operating plans of a new $2,000,000 export company formed at Birmingham with Sam C. Dobbs, of Atlanta, as president, were outlined in Atlanta Tuesday by Mr. Dobbs, who has returned from Birmingham where he attended the final organization meeting of the new company. The company already has 200,000 bales of cotton ready for export with prospects of doubling this amount in a short time.

The new company is the Warrant Export and Discount company, and it will export cotton to Europe from the south on the old "roll plan," according to Mr. Dobbs.

"Our firm will undertake to receive cotton, regardless of where it is grown, simply selling the cotton. Our firm has connections in London, Liverpool, Vienna and Prague. Cotton will be forwarded entirely under our supervision to European mills and the resultant goods sold on the world market, the returns being made direct to the original owners of the cotton less our firm's commission, which will be strictly on a percentage basis."

Officers of the new company are Sam C. Dobbs, president; Charles F. Wood, Washington, D. C., textile engineer, vice president; Cleon B. Rogers, banker of Birmingham, treasurer, and W. D. Nesbit, of the Warrant Warehouse company, secretary.

Mr. Dobbs said the plan of his company eliminates all other commission charges, brokerage charges, storage charges and the burden on American cotton due to the disparity in exchange of American money with foreign money. "By this simple direct method we use the difference in exchange as an asset rather than a liability," Mr. Dobbs said.

Recently Mr. Dobbs spent several weeks in Europe and visited many of the cotton manufacturing cities to obtain first-hand information concerning conditions existing in those countries. He said his new company now has contracts with several of the big cotton manufacturing companies in the European countries.

RUMORS REVIVED

That Orme Will Seek to Be Mayor

Revived rumors that Attorney A. J. Orme, former council member from the eighth ward, might consent to become a candidate for mayor in the municipal campaign next year, were heard Tuesday in political circles.

Asked about the report, Mr. Orme said: "I appreciate what may be said in my behalf, but right at the present I hardly see where I could leave my business and enter the race for mayor."

KEY ACKNOWLEDGES RECEIPT OF MONEY

Major Key wrote to the citizens' relief committee of West Point Tuesday acknowledging receipt of a check for $2,394.70, representing a return of 10 per cent of a flood relief fund which the citizens and the city council of Atlanta sent to the stricken town nearly two years ago when it was inundated by flood waters. Before recovering from this disaster further damage was done by a destructive cyclone.

The mayor congratulated the officials and citizens of West Point on their pluck and upon their refusal to emerge from the havoc of flood and cyclone, to spend more than was called for by their most urgent needs.

TO DISCUSS SITES FOR MARKET TUESDAY

Proposed sites for a municipal market house will be discussed by the joint finance and municipal research committees at a meeting which will be held at the city hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The tax committee session, scheduled for 3 o'clock also, has been postponed until Thursday afternoon.

On account of some members of the tax committee being members of the joint body that will discuss the market.

TEACHERS' CLASS WORK IS STARTED

Classes in extension work for teachers in the Atlanta public schools started Tuesday afternoon at the Commercial High school. "Scientific Principles of Education" will be taught by Dr. R. C. Wagner, of Emory University. Dr. W. F. Melton, of Emory, will conduct classes on "The Short Story." The school will be held every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon.

Georgia Tech will co-operate in the extension work, and the co-operation of Oglethorpe University and Agnes Scott college will be asked by the local school officials.

REYNOLDS TO HEAD WORK FOR GEORGIA

Frank T. Reynolds, secretary of the Georgia Automobile association, was elected vice president for Georgia of the Atlanta-Knoxville Highway association at a meeting of the association held in Knoxville Monday. Mr. Reynolds will appoint three citizens from each of the counties of Fulton, Cobb, Bartow, Murray and Gordon to membership. The highway, when completed, will be 60 miles shorter than any other highway between the two cities.

ATLANTIC TO BUILD NEW ICE PLANT

The Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation was granted a permit by the city building inspector Tuesday to erect a two-story reinforced concrete ice plant at the corner of Murphy avenue and Benjamin street. Estimated cost of the building is $125,000.

Its equipment will be electrical and of the latest type, largely increasing the company's output and storage capacity. Morgan and Dillon are the architects and the Foundation Company of New York, the builder.

DOBBS EXPLAINS EXPORT COMPANY

Governor Hardwick will appoint a successor to Judge J. K. Hines as special counsel for the state railroad commission as soon as he returns to Atlanta next Monday, it was learned at the governor's office Tuesday. The governor left Tuesday for Augusta to attend the Augusta fair. He will then go to Baxley, Bainbridge and Valdosta to fill speaking engagements at fairs, and will go to Athens Saturday to attend the Georgia-Virginia football game.

Judge Hines retired as special counsel for the state railroad commission to take up his duties as justice of the supreme court, to succeed Judge Walter F. George, resigned. Judge Hines will take his place on the supreme bench January 4, 1922.

The new company is the Warrant Export and Discount company, and it will export cotton to Europe from the south on the old "roll plan," according to Mr. Dobbs. ## Georgia Looking for Struggle When Virginia Comes Down

Absence of Freshmen From Bulldog Line-Up to Be Felt Seriously in Battle.

Athens, November 1.—With the Auburn Tiger game in camp, the Georgia Bulldogs are now turning their entire attention toward the Virginia game which will take place Saturday at Sanford field.

Word from Charlottesville indicates that the Old Dominion team is journeying south this year with blood in its eyes and a determination to take the measure of the Athenians. The last two games between Georgia and Virginia have both resulted in ties, and both teams are naturally on their toes to win the coming encounter.

The Red and Black will be handicapped somewhat by the absence of all freshmen from the line-up. The one-year rule prevails in the game with Virginia, and consequently neither Randall nor Fletcher will be able to play. While both of these men are playing their first year at Georgia, they have both starred in the backfield and their loss will be seriously felt.

The Auburn game last Saturday left the majority of the Bulldog team in excellent condition. The usual number of bruises and sprains resulted, but no serious injury was sustained by any of the Georgia team. Flits is the only man about whom there is any doubt. He twisted his ankle in practice just before the Auburn game, and was unable to play. It is doubtful at present whether he will be able to play against Virginia.

Bulldogs Get Rest.

The Bulldogs enjoyed their first holiday of the year Monday afternoon. They looked a little stale at the opening of the Auburn game and Coach Stegeman is taking no chances of his men getting over-worked with the hardest part of their schedule ahead of them. Consequently no workous was held this afternoon.

All things point to the fact that the Tornado should be ranked on sectional performances—for Tech would have to take a place behind both Centre and Georgia. There would be justice in the protest, too, for the fact that Virginia was trounced by Princeton Saturday they still have a team that will furnish the Red and Black with no little trouble.

New Backfield.

Furthermore, with both Fletcher and Randall missing from the Georgia backfield, the Red and Black offence will have some difficulty pushing over a touchdown. In all probability Coach Stegeman will use an entirely new backfield than the one used against Auburn. Collings will be fit for the game Saturday and will play fullback. Tanner and Jim Reynolds are booked to start at halves, while Flits will call signals, provided he is in shape by that time. If not, either Clarke or Pierce will probably play quarter.

Now let's take Auburn. Like Tech it wasted three Saturdays against set-up teams, in which the Auburn team could learn no football and in watching the defeat of

Tech's Rating to Provide Puzzle Fault of Ambitious Schedule

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

When the football writers start on their annual thankless task—a particularly violent type, could obtain any thrill. Then Auburn took on one secondary game—Clemson, but devotes the rest of the season to major southern games, encountering four big Dixie schools—Georgia, Tulane, Centre and Georgia Tech.

It is frankly admitted throughout the length and breadth of Dixie that the Golden Tornado possesses probably the best attacking machine of the section. Its defense is noting to be passed over lightly. Still there is no way on earth by which a ranking of the Tech team can be logically arrived at.

One southern game—only one in importance is on the Golden Tornado schedule and that battle comes with Auburn as the sun sets on the season on Thanksgiving day.

We all admit the futility of attempting to arrive at anything by comparative scores, especially those scores made against small teams in warm-up games early in the season, and with the exception of the Auburn game those preliminary battles form absolutely the only basis of comparison by which the statue of the Golden Tornado might be arrived at.

No one would protest more vehemently than Tech should the Tornado be ranked on sectional performances—for Tech would have to take a place behind both Centre and Georgia. There would be justice in the protest, too, for the fact that Tech was decisively beaten by a team that tied a team that was defeated by Centre and played to a standstill by Georgia, can actually mean nothing.

Some Comparison Of Schedules.

Looking over the Tornado schedule, it is discovered that Tech disposed of three of its precious Saturdays going through the motions of play with southern teams, and the third magnitude. Two of them are second-class powers, two more sectional games, Rutgers and Penn State, and Georgetown, and one up with its season has four southern games of the big tent class in V. P. I., Kentucky, Auburn and Washington and Lee.

Vanderbilt has four such engagements with Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia, and winds up its season with Sewanee, while Ven Centre has four southern games of the big tent class in V. P. I., Kentucky, Auburn and Washington and Lee.

Question of Hindsight.

These comparisons are made for no invidious purposes. There was no attempt out at Tech to slack on the job. The schedule was made primarily because the rampant, rabid followers of Tech football demanded last season that Tech set out and conquer the east, to work on to that end and let the rest of the schedule go hang.

Right now, these followers are realizing just how glibly they erred in policy. A southern title would be mighty comforting to Tech this year. But Tech isn't going to get any southern title. It's not possible, due to the fact that Tech hasn't played any southern teams.

"Red" Ivy was unable to play the first part of the season due to the after effects of an illness during the summer. But he has been out practicing the past two weeks playing with the scrubs and if he gets in action Friday should be good for a long run or two.

Georgetown Has Power. Incidentally, Georgetown has the best team that it has had in years. A very well-known authority on football said the other day that in his opinion Georgetown had one of the four strongest teams in the country. He mentioned Penn State, Pittsburgh, Navy and Georgetown as the teams having the best claims to a national championship. And the records of these four teams certainly bear out this statement.

John Jacobs, due to illness in his family, will not make the Florida trip. Jacobs has been subbing on the line this season and has done good work in several of the past games.

"Red" Ivy was unable to play the first part of the season due to the after effects of an illness during the summer. But he has been out practicing the past two weeks playing with the scrubs and if he gets in action Friday should be good for a long run or two.

The Oglethorpe Party will be composed of Walter Elocok, coach; Ford Little, student manager; Jim Burns, sport writer, and the following players: David, Cooper Hamrick, Crowe, Bartenfeld, Whitehead, Roberts, Adams, Johnson, Hafele, Campbell, Varnadoe, Morris, Stephens, Turner, Ivy, Paris and Parr.

Georgia Looking for Struggle When Virginia Comes Down

Absence of Freshmen From Bulldog Line-Up to Be Felt Seriously in Battle.

Athens, November 1.—With the Auburn Tiger game in camp, the Georgia Bulldogs are now turning their entire attention toward the Virginia game which will take place Saturday at Sanford field.

Word from Charlottesville indicates that the Old Dominion team is journeying south this year with blood in its eyes and a determination to take the measure of the Athenians. The last two games between Georgia and Virginia have both resulted in ties, and both teams are naturally on their toes to win the coming encounter.

The Red and Black will be handicapped somewhat by the absence of all freshmen from the line-up. The one-year rule prevails in the game with Virginia, and consequently neither Randall nor Fletcher will be able to play. While both of these men are playing their first year at Georgia, they have both starred in the backfield and their loss will be seriously felt.

The Auburn game last Saturday left the majority of the Bulldog team in excellent condition. The usual number of bruises and sprains resulted, but no serious injury was sustained by any of the Georgia team. Flits is the only man about whom there is any doubt. He twisted his ankle in practice just before the Auburn game, and was unable to play. It is doubtful at present whether he will be able to play against Virginia.

Bulldogs Get Rest.

The Bulldogs enjoyed their first holiday of the year Monday afternoon. They looked a little stale at the opening of the Auburn game and Coach Stegeman is taking no chances of his men getting over-worked with the hardest part of their schedule ahead of them. Consequently no workous was held this afternoon.

All things point to the fact that the Tornado should be ranked on sectional performances—for Tech would have to take a place behind both Centre and Georgia. There would be justice in the protest, too, for the fact that Virginia was trounced by Princeton Saturday they still have a team that will furnish the Red and Black with no little trouble.

New Backfield.

Furthermore, with both Fletcher and Randall missing from the Georgia backfield, the Red and Black offence will have some difficulty pushing over a touchdown. In all probability Coach Stegeman will use an entirely new backfield than the one used against Auburn. Collings will be fit for the game Saturday and will play fullback. Tanner and Jim Reynolds are booked to start at halves, while Flits will call signals, provided he is in shape by that time. If not, either Clarke or Pierce will probably play quarter.

Now let's take Auburn. Like Tech it wasted three Saturdays against set-up teams, in which the Auburn team could learn no football and in watching the defeat of

Tech's Rating to Provide Puzzle Fault of Ambitious Schedule

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

When the football writers start on their annual thankless task—a particularly violent type, could obtain any thrill. Then Auburn took on one secondary game—Clemson, but devotes the rest of the season to major southern games, encounter four big Dixie schools—Georgia, Tulane, Centre and Georgia Tech.

It is frankly admitted throughout the length and breadth of Dixie that the Golden Tornado possesses probably the best attacking machine of the section. Its defense is noting to be passed over lightly. Still there is no way on earth by which a ranking of the Tech team can be logically arrived at.

One southern game—only one in importance is on the Golden Tornado schedule and that battle comes with Auburn as the sun sets on the season on Thanksgiving day.

Even Alabama, that drew a laugh with its early season schedule, comes with its first round matches in the championship consolation, second, fourth, and fifth flights.

When the tournament was projected by the frolicsome Inch Hounds, one of the inducements offered to the clubs of the organization to swing their mashes in bad weather was a bewildering array of cups and prizes that would tempt John D. Rockefeller himself. It seemed that there could be no possibility of anyone failing to get at least one finger in the pie.

But Al Bailey, after he had won the low net prize in the qualifying round, figured out that the losers in the first round of the lower flights would have to be content with nothing more than a loser's score card. His heart was touched with pity at the thought of so much wasted effort, and so he rushed off madly to a jeweler's and bought a cup to be won by some of these losers.

The first round matches in all flights have now been practically completed, and the stage is set for the second round. All flights must be finished by November 10.

Board to Arbitrate Rail Labor Disputes In Southeast Formed

Washington, November 1.—Railroads of the southeastern territory and the four railroad brotherhoods today announced the establishment of a joint board to adjust disputes growing out of personal grievances or out of interpretation or application of schedules, practices and agreements which cannot be settled by direct conference.

Decisions of the board by agreement entered into between the brotherhoods and 16 railroads in the southeastern territory are final and binding upon both parties to any controversy if approved by a majority of the board's membership of eight. The board is to have no jurisdiction over disputes involving requests for changes in rates of pay or in rules covering working conditions, jurisdiction over such matters being vested in the United States railroad labor board.

The newly created board, which will be known as the train service board of adjustment of the southeastern region, and which will sit in Washington, is constituted as follows:

Representing the Railroads—Colonel Albert B. Bayless, of the Louisville and Nashville, chairman of the board; W. T. Caldwell, formerly general superintendent of the southwestern district, Southern railway; W. A. Durham, formerly member of railroad adjustment board No. 1, organized under the railroad administration, and E. W. Grice, assistant to the president, Chesapeake and Ohio railway.

Representing the Brotherhoods—F. A. Burgess, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, vice-chairman of the board; W. N. Doak, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; C. J. Goff, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and W. C. Turner, vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

The railroads subscribing to the agreement were announced as follows:

Atlanta Coast Line, Atlanta and West Point-Western Railway of Alabama, Central of Georgia, Charleston and Western Carolina, Chesapeake and Ohio, Florida East Coast, Georgia, Gulf and Ship Island; Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis; Louisville and Nashville, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Norfolk Southern, Norfolk and Western, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac; Seaboard Air Line and Winston-Salem Southbound.

It has been shown by the census bureau that there were 24,457 persons over 10 years of age in Minnesota in 1920 who were unable to write.

Pike County Wins First Prize At Macon Fair

Washington, November 1.—(Special)—Pike county today was awarded the first prize for the best county agricultural display at the Georgia State fair. The prize was $800. Coshocton county, Ohio, was the winner of second prize, $700, and Montgomery county, Alabama, third prize, $600.

Other prize winners in the order named were Spalding county, Georgia, fourth, $500; Union county, fifth, $400; Culman county, Alabama, sixth, $300; Haywood, South Carolina, seventh, $200; Washington county, Georgia, eighth, $100; Morgan county, Alabama, ninth, $100; Swain county, North Carolina, tenth, $100; Crenshaw county, Alabama, eleventh, $100; Murray county, Georgia, twelfth, $100; Houston county, Georgia, thirteenth, $100; Hall county, Georgia, fourteenth, $100; Barrow county, Georgia, fifteenth, $100; Bibb county, Georgia, sixteenth, $100.

Pike county's average, out of a possible 100 per cent, was 80 per cent, made up as follows: Agriculture, 50 per cent; Industry, 5 per cent; fruit, 8 per cent; vegetables, 9 per cent; attractive arrangement, 8 per cent. This was the first year the Georgia State fair has been thrown open to the competition of the world. The agricultural display this year surpasses all previous records here, and the fact that a Georgia county won first prize in competition with those of other states, is considered significant by the state fair officials.

to warrant bringing the matter to the attention of the senate or country, although two former service men had vouched for its authenticity.

Senator New, republican, Indiana, entered the debate to submit information which he said he had received from the war department to the effect that of the members of the American expeditionary forces who had been condemned by court-martial, only nine had been executed, whereas Senator Watson had said at least 21 had been hanged, many without having been tried, from the gallows, which he said was shown in the photograph.

RECORDS EXAMINED.

Examination of the army records made today by Secretary Weeks revealed that none of the men executed in France during the war was deserted with a military offense, desertion or cowardice, or aiding the enemy. The total number of executions by the army, he said, was 10. There was no execution, the secretary said, until after careful and searching inquiry and a full trial.

In each of the ten cases, it was declared, the sentence of the court was carried out. Six were on charges of rape, three for rape and murder, and one for murder and assault with intent to rape. All were aggravated cases, it was explained.

The secretary asserted that no inquiry had been received by him, or to his knowledge by the department, as to the accuracy of the charges before they were made by Senator Watson.

The other members of the advisory committee are:

J. M. Wainwright, of New York, assistant secretary of war, a veteran of the Spanish-American and world wars.

of the three proposals. While there have been some recruits to the sales tax idea, the Smoot amendment is expected to meet stiff opposition from both sides of the chamber.

The senate confined its operations today almost strictly to the subject matter in the bill, renewal of the soldiers' bonus fight being deferred until next week.

WORLD DELAY BONUS TALK.

At that time Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, expects to reply to a statement issued today by Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee, who said the Reed amendment for the bonus coming at this time would "undoubtedly create suspicion in the minds of the veterans of the senator's sincerity."

"Very early in the coming regular session of Congress," said Mr. Fordney, "the house will undoubtedly pass an adjusted compensation bill. Let me ask Senator Reed to end his long talk, and consequent delay of the business at hand. The sooner he does this the sooner we will get a bonus bill."

Luxury and nuisance taxes struck from the bill today and tonight by the senate included those on articles made of fur; toilet soaps and tooth powders, tooth and mouth washes, dentifrices, toothpaste, toilet powders and petroleum oil, electric fans, thermos and thermostatic bottles and photographic apparatus and accessories.

TAXES RETAINED.

Taxes retained included: Photographic films and plates, other than moving picture films, 5 per cent; candy, 3 per cent for all kinds, in lieu of the present rate of 4 per cent; perfumes, essences, extracts, toilet waters, cosmetics, hair oils, hair oil dressings, restoratives, dyes,

etc. etc.

Four per cent in lieu of present stamp taxes; firearms, shells and cartridges; hunting and bowie knives, dirk knives, daggers, cigar and cigarette holders and pipes, humidors and smoking stands;

hunting and shooting garments and riding habits; liberics and liveries boots and hats and automatic slot device weighing machines 10 per cent; yachts and motor boats, not designed for trade, fishing or national defense and pleasure boats and pleasure canoes if sold for more than $100, 10 per cent; automatic slot device vending machines, 5 per cent.

Five per cent manufacturers' taxes on carpets, trunks, valises, purses, portable lighting fixtures and fans sold in excess of certified amounts were agreed to after some discussion. These are to replace the existing luxury clothing and similar taxes paid to the retailer by the consumer.

MOVIE TAX STRICKEN.

Without a roll call, the senate struck out a committee amendment for a 5 per cent tax for the leasing or licensing of moving picture films.

Sen. Smoot said this tax was passed on to the proprietors of the moving picture houses, who, he said, now are taxed five ways.

By a vote of 32 to 18, the senate agreed to the house rate of 5 per cent instead of the present 10 per cent on works of art. Senator Reed sought to have the whole section stricken out.

The jewelry tax section with the present rate of 5 per cent was retained, to be applied to the leasing or licensing of moving picture films.

One striking citation of Mr. Underwood was that high taxation would always be a deterrent to harmony between capital and labor, since labor would suffer from drain on small resources and capital would suffer from its inability—on account of high taxation—to meet labor demands for wages.

STRIKING CITATION.

One striking citation of Mr. Un-derwood's was that 92.6 per cent of the taxation of the United States was to take care of past or future wars and that the remainder was all that was available for research, health, education and the like. He further said that 75 per cent of the annual expenditure on past and future wars was spent on military military roads in the country. Mr.

Underwood said that war can be ended only with a substitute for it.

"This substitute we have now in the league of nations, which is ready to take our part in it."

Resolutions were passed indorse-ing the disarmament plans, and urging the co-operation of all Atlanta church people in securing a large attendance for the mass meeting November 11. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Plato Durham, D. D.

A VICTORY FOR PEACE.
In voting, by an overwhelming majority, to sustain the premier in his position on the Irish question, the British house of commons has taken the only course calculated to bring final adjustment of the controversy by peaceful means rather than by warfare.

Its vote was upon the question as to whether or not the negotiations between the Sinn Fein delegation and the British government should proceed.

It was occasioned by a motion sponsored by the unionist party censuring the government for having initiated the conference; and Lloyd-George went in person before the house and appealed for the defeat of the motion, which, if affirmed, would have ended negotiations and put the Irish problem back into the state of chaos from which it was lifted when both sides reached an agreement last summer to thrash it out across the table instead of trying longer to settle it by armed conflict.

How successfully the premier argued his "case" is attested by the vote of 439 to 43 sustaining him.

Had the unionist position been sustained it would have meant, as Lloyd-George forcefully and repeatedly pointed out in the course of his argument from the floor, the end of the recent Irish-British truce, the resumption of guerrilla warfare on Irish soil, and the needless sacrifice of more human life.

As matters stand, however, the truce continues; the parley will be resumed, and in all probability the questions at issue will be settled in due course—and settled in that way, settled right and on a basis of reason and even justice.

Even were the government to yield entirely to the position thus far maintained by the Sinn Fein delegates—a position based upon a demand for recognition of absolute independence for Ireland—the inevitable result would be civil war in Ireland itself.

The premier has taken the only tenable position: That there must be no such yielding; that the negotiations must proceed, and that the British government must treat with the Sinn Fein representatives "as the representatives of the Irish people," and not as the representatives of an independent sovereign Irish republic.

The fact that the premier's own government has so emphatically sustained him is gratifying to the whole world, for it records another triumph of reason and intellect over armed force, and a victory for law and order, and constitutional government.

MONEY ON THE MOVE.
It seems to be something of a pay-up proposition all around in Georgia, now that business is on the upgrade.

That is, as far as the people are able to pay, they are either cancelling old obligations, or doing what they can to bring them down to an easier paying basis.

Speaking for the southwest Georgia section of the state—and it applies all over—The Albany (Ga.) Herald has this editorial paragraph:

"It is a great thing to pay what you can pay. A lot of people who can't settle accounts in full, settle them in part, and it's a mighty good way to keep the wheels of business turning."

A little here, and a little there, keeps cash in circulation and is a great business stimulant.

Cash markets for farm products are helping wonderfully in this way, and the greatest plenty of products are offered for sale daily. And the producer pays when he sells.

In this connection The LaGrange (Ga.) Reporter says—

"If you have only a dollar, let it do all it can in the patriotic task of clearing up the books. A dollar will accomplish a great deal by the time it goes through dozens of hands. Too, when you turn your dollar loose, the man who needs it in order to pay somebody else, you set an example which will have a large influence in causing other people to turn their dollars into the channels of relief.

"Let's do all we can!"

That's the spirit to work and win by. Passing the prosperity around is only another, and a mighty good way, of keeping it at home.

THE BEER RULING.

Unless an official opinion expressed the other day by Ransford W. Shaw, attorney-general of the state of Maine, proves unsound and ill-considered, the recent ruling by the head of the treasury department in behalf of beer will prove disappointing to many who thought they saw it in a loophole through which to crawl and evade the prohibition laws.

The federal treasury department holds that beer may be prescribed by physicians when, in their judgment, the condition of patients would be improved by it, and stipulates the maximum "dose" of the fluid that might legally be prescribed for a "patient" within a stated period of time.

The new regulation, which is based upon a ruling handed down by the department of justice during the tenure of Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, carries with it permission to breweries for the manufacture of beer in quantity sufficient to meet the "medicinal purposes" demand.

Following the announcement of that official interpretation of the federal prohibition amendment and statutes, predictions were made that concurrently with its becoming effective, the country would see an unprecedented wave of sickness, general debility, etc., and virtually apell-mell rush of "invalids" toward the offices of "beer" doctors.

But in Maine, at least, the elation of the "wets" has been cooled somewhat, according to press reports, by their state attorney-general, who holds that—

"Until the prohibitory liquor law is removed from the state constitution the sale of beer or other liquors cannot take place in Maine."

So the probability is that the "wets" in territory that is "dry" by state as well as by federal enactment will have to look to their respective states, rather than to the national government, for escape from the restrictions superimposed by prohibition.

THE OPEN AVENUE.

The Waycross (Ga.) Journal-Herald well says that the daily newspaper gives "the open avenue to advertising better than any other medium," for the reason that "it affords opportunity for telling the folks about bargains every day—in their homes, at their leisure, repeatedly and gently, silently and effectively."

Nothing of value is overlooked, or superficially scanned, in the advertising columns of the standard daily newspaper, from the little want ad on up to the more pretentious, well-displayed page or column announcements.

And our Waycross contemporaries stresses the point that advertising not only makes business, but holds it—

"This has been proved over and over, time and again. It has been proved by the decline of business when the advertising stopped. It has been perhaps less palpably and patiently, but more profitably, demonstrated by the steadily mounting volume of business which followed and kept on following the consistent, persistent advertising campaign that made up a part of the business routine just like opening the store doors every morning and keeping the window or the sidewalk display fresh and changed now and then to meet the needs of the public, the demands of the season and the condition of the merchant and his stock of merchandise."

With the general improvement in business due to the advance in cotton prices and the moving of other crops to market, spirited advertising campaigns are being conducted throughout the state.

Merchants of all progressive towns are crowding the columns of their home papers with daily and weekly announcements of what they have to sell. They are advertising home-prosperity.

And that's the way to keep the trade-wheels moving when once the "prosperity train" has started on the business track!

Why St. Helena for Charlie Hapsburg?" asks The Philadelphia Record: "He's such a poor fish, he could never swim back to the mainland."

With a received summer ice bill, and the winter's coal taken care of, you'll have to get some unemployed pessimist to stir up something to worry about.

Cash markets for farm products are helping wonderfully in this way, and the greatest plenty of products are offered for sale daily. And the producer pays when he sells.

BOMB IS EXPLODED AT U.S. CONSULATE

American Consul at Lisbon Target for Infernal Machine—No Damage by Explosion.

Lisbon, November 1.—(By the Associated Press)—A bomb exploded this morning on the staircase at the American consulate here. No damage was done, however. The police attribute the outrage to the agitation in connection with the cases of Sacco and Vanzetti, Italians under conviction of murder in Massachusetts.

The bomb, which apparently was some form of grenade, had been placed before the door of the quarters of the American consulate. It appears that it exploded after the consul, in leaving the quarters, had given the grenade a push with his foot, but the interval intervening was sufficient to give him time to escape.

Officials reported that a note found nearby said the bomb was meant as a protest in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

REPORT IS RECEIVED.

Washington, November 1.—(By the Associated Press)—A dispatch from Consul General Hollis at Lisbon, received early today at the state department, reported the bomb explosion in the consulate there. The consul general said the Portuguese government was investigating energetically and would make efforts to apprehend those responsible for the affair. Only trifling damage to the building was reported.

The message said that a note protesting against the conviction of Vanzetti and Sacco in Massachusetts was slipped beneath the door of the consulate, and a few moments later the explosion occurred.

Investigation has been instituted by the department of justice into threats being made by radicals in connection with the cases of Sacco and Vanzetti, Italians convicted in Massachusetts of the murder of a mill paymaster.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB IS PLANNED BY LOCAL CHAMBER

To furnish the business and professional women of Atlanta with a central point of contact in matters of civic importance, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, through its department of women's affairs, will take steps at once toward the formation of a business and professional women's club.

Lee Ashcraft, president, has endorsed the plan, and has the support of Miss Laura Smith, head of the women's department. A plan in detail will be worked out and submitted to the board of directors at its next meeting for approval. Those urging the formation of the body of women stated Tuesday that assurances have been obtained that the club will be sanctioned.

The club will function under Miss Smith's department. A year-round program of activities will be arranged and assigned to the new organization.

"The Spoils of the Strong," by Eleanor Talbot Kinkead, Starting Sunday.

The next morning was the busiest since Yorke had first come upon the Van Rensselaer affair. Until late afternoon he kept up his ceaseless, heart-breaking pace. Then he called up the Van Rensselaer residence, and got Robin on the wire.

"How is that dog, Mr. Van Rensselaer?" The wolfhound who was injured in the Adirondacks?

"They take him out every day."

"I want you to bring him yourself to my room tonight at 8 o'clock. Please ask Mr. Dysart Van Rensselaer to come with you without fail. I will send a note to Mr. Hildreth. His presence is necessary."

self to my rooms tonight at 8.

Later he called up police headquarters and held a short conversation with them.

Thus it came about that when Yorke entered his study that evening, he found three anxious men awaiting him.

Dysart, looking stronger than when Yorke had last seen him, was pacing restlessly back and forth.

Paul Hildreth, pale and very grave, but self-contained as usual, had taken a seat a little in the background and Robin sat in a large armchair by the table, with a huge white-and-buff shape crumpled at his feet.

As Yorke approached, the dog lifted his great, black-rimmed eyes, and regarded him moodily, but made no other sign. He seemed, curiously enough, to divine the tension of suspense in the air, and partake of it. It was as if he, too, were waiting.

"Good evening. I am glad you have come in time," Yorke said gravely. "I have much to tell you that will I am afraid, be an incomprehensible shock to you all, particularly to Mr. Van Rensselaer, and I must ask you to hear me out with patience. I will be as brief as I can."

When they were seated he turned to Dysart, with an infinite compassion in his eyes, and said, as gently as he could, "Mr. Van Rensselaer, I know you want the strain of suspense over as soon as possible, even though it makes your suffering deeper than anything you have yet endured. I have discovered the murderer of your wife."

Dysart drew in his breath sharply. "It was her only living relative—her brother."

There was a moment of tense silence, then Dysart cried out in amazement.

"But there must be some mistake!"

A PETER RUFF STORY

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution.)

Next Week, "A Little Girl From Serbia."

T was the first occasion upon which words of this sort had passed between Peter Ruff and his secretary. There was no denying the fact that Miss Violet Brown was in a passion. It was an hour past the time at which she usually left the office. For an hour she had pleaded, and Peter Ruff remained unmoved.

"You are a fool!" she cried to him at last. "I am a fool, too, and I have ever wasted my thoughts and time upon you. Why don't you make you see?"

"Peter," she said, "I will tell you something you must. I am fond of you, Peter. I always have been. Don't make me miserable if there is no need for it. Tell me honestly—do you really believe in this woman?"

He removed his hands gently, and raised them to his lips.

"My dear girl," he said, "I believe in everyone until I find them out. I look upon suspicion as a vice. But, at the same time," he added, "there are always certain precautions which one takes."

"What precautions can you take?" she cried. "Can you sit there and make yourself invisible? John Dory is not a fool. The moment he is in this room with the door closed behind him, it is the end."

"We must hope not," Peter Ruff said cheerfully. "There are other things which may happen, you know."

She turned away from him a little drearily.

"You do not mind if I stay?" she said. "I am not working tonight. Perhaps, later on, I may be of use."

"As you will," he answered. "You will excuse me for a little time."

Peter Ruff sighed.

She came up to him and laid her won't you? I have some preparations to make."

She turned her head away from him. He left the room and ascended the stairs to his own apartments.

Eight o'clock was striking from St. Martin's church when the door of Peter Ruff's office was softly opened and closed again. A man in a slouch hat and overcoat entered, and after feeling along the wall for a moment, turned up the electric light. Violet Brown rose from her place with a little sob. She stretched out her hand to him.

"Peter!" she cried. "Peter!"

"My name," the newcomer said calmly, "is Mr. Spencer Fitzgerald."

"Oh, listen to me!" she begged. "The time is still time, if you hurry. Think how many clever men before you have been deceived by the woman in whom they trusted. Please, please go! Hurry upstairs and put those things away."

"Madam," the newcomer said, "I am much obliged to you for your interest, but I think that you are making a mistake. I have come here to meet—"

He stopped short. There was a soft knocking at the door. A stifled scream broke from Violet Brown's lips.

"It is too late!" she cried. "Peter!"

She sank into her chair and covered her face with her hands. The door was opened and Maud came in. When she saw who it was who sat in Peter Ruff's place, she gave a little cry. Perhaps, after all, she had not believed that this thing would happen.

"Spencer!" she cried, "Spencer! Have you really come back?"

He held out his hands.

"You are glad to see me?" he asked.

She came slowly forward. The man rose from his place and came toward her with outstretched hands. Then through the door came John Dory, and one caught a glimpse of others behind him.

"If my wife is not glad to see you, Mr. Spencer Fitzgerald," he said, in a tone from which he vainly tried to keep the note of triumph, "I can assure you that I am. You slipped away from me cleverly at Daisy Villa, but this time I think you will not find it so easy."

Maud shrank back, and her husband took her place. But Mr. Spencer Fitzgerald looked upon them both as one who looks upon figures in a dream. Miss Brown rose hurriedly from her seat. She came over to him and thrust her arm through his.

"Peter," she said, taking his hand in hers, "don't shoot. It isn't worth while. You should have listened to me."

The little man in the gold-rimmed spectacles looked at her, looked at John Dory, looked at the woman who was shrinking back now against the wall.

"Really," he said, "this is the most extraordinary situation in which I ever found myself."

"We will help you to realize it." John Dory cried, and the triumph in his tone had swelled into a deeper note. "I came here to arrest Mr. Fitzgerald, but I hear this young lady call you 'Peter.' Perhaps this may be the solution—"

The little man struck the table with the flat of his hand.

"Come," he said, "this is getting a bit too thick. First of all—" he said, turning to Miss Brown—"my name is not Peter, and I have no such lady against the wall, I don't know her—never saw her before in life. As for you," he added, turning to John Dory, "you talk about arresting me—what for?"

Mr. John Dory smiled.

"There is an old warrant," he said, "which I have in my pocket, but I fancy that there are a few little things since then which we may have to inquire into."

"This beats me!" the little man declared. "Who do you think I am?"

"Mr. Spencer Fitzgerald, to start with," John Dory said. "It seems to me not impossible that we may find another pseudonym for you."

"You can find as many as you like," the little man answered testily, "but my name is James Fitzgerald, and I am an actor employed at the Shaftesbury theater, as I can prove with the utmost ease. I never called myself Spencer; nor, to my knowledge, was I ever called by such a name. Nor, as I remember, have I ever seen any one of you three people before with the exception of Miss Brown here, whom I have seen on the stage."

John Dory nodded.

"It was Mr. Spencer Fitzgerald," he said. "a clerk in Hewitt & Wilson's bookshop, who leaped out of the window of Daisy Villa two years ago. It may be Mr. James Fitzgerald."

"We must hope not," Peter Ruff said cheerfully. "There are other things which may happen, you know."

She turned away from him a little drearily.

"You do not mind if I stay?" she said. "I am not working tonight. Perhaps, later on, I may be of use."

"As you will," he answered. "You will excuse me for a little time."

Peter Ruff sighed.

Atlanta Women Meet Smith College Deans.

A distinguished visitor in Atlanta yesterday was Dean Ada Louise Comstock, of Smith college, who is president of the American Association of University Women.

In the morning she addressed the faculty and students of Agnes Scott college, taking as her theme the association of university women, which is affiliated with the foreign associations. Among the interesting facts she brought out is that there are more women graduates of American universities than in all the foreign countries combined.

In the afternoon Dean Comstock met the members of Atlanta Smith club informally at tea, when Mrs. Frank Neely was hostess at her home on Piedmont avenue.

Dean Comstock described in conversational style the changes which have recently been made at Smith and are contemplated, both in the plant itself, the government of the school, and the methods of study and instruction.

Questions were invited, and the occasion afforded the college women a happy revival of college memories and interesting information on the most modern and approved system of higher education.

Dr. C. Lin Seiler, of New York, well known as an authority on music and a noted reviewer of concerts and opera, opened the program with some introductory remarks on the subject "Old Times for New," pointing out the relationship of the modern popular music to the classics. His points were well illustrated by the playing of Charles Cooper, pianist. Mr. Cooper then played a group of solos.

Miss Ethel Rust-Meller, soprano, was another popular performer in a number of songs, accompanied by the Ampico.

All of these artists are appearing today at the Music Study club, Girls' High school and Norriss' Candy company.

Miss Haines Will Direct Classes In Household Art

No course in the Smith-Hughes classes given under the auspices of the home economics department of the Woman's club, has been more popular than that of household arts, directed by Miss Marie Haines, the well-known Atlanta artist. Miss Haines has arranged her plans so that she will be able to conduct these classes again this year.

So many are the applications already for instruction in this important feature in home-making that it has been decided to enlarge the scope of the work to cover the entire field of interior decoration and instead of confining the instruction to only fifteen women per class, as has been the custom in the past, to give a course of ten lessons, consisting partly of lectures and partly of demonstrations, thus giving each member an opportunity to get assistance on her own problems of decoration, yet not taking the time of the instructor to do the work.

The regular monthly meeting of the Atlanta Junior league, Tuesday afternoon, at the Piedmont Driving club, hearty support was offered by each member present in answer to the call sent out for membership by the fifth annual Red Cross roll call, which begins November 11, extending through November 17.

Miss Jennie Johnson, chairman of the civic committee, was appointed Red Cross chairman. She will be assisted by the members of the 1921-22 Debutante club, and they will have charge of the Juniors' league booth at Nunnally's on Peachtree street, and also at Franklin & Cox, corner of Alabama and Whitehall streets.

The meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes by Miss Mal Horine, recording secretary, followed by reports from chairmen of various committees.

Class dues.

The course of ten lessons, which will be at the same rate as the other home economics classes, will be $2 for club members and $3 for non-members. Single admissions will be 50 cents for either members or non-members, but to get the full benefit of the course, and also to be assured of a seat, it is advisable to obtain tickets at the next home economics meeting at the clubhouse, Wednesday, November 9.

Those wishing to take this course may register with the household arts chairman, Mrs. O. H. Mathews, Hinkle 4575, or Mrs. Norman Pool, West 457-5. This will simply secure precedence in securing the tickets, as they will not be issued till the day of the home economics meeting.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calamine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge and rub the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared.

Big blackheads are little devils, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts smooth and mild whatever blackheads they are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—plunging and squeezing only cause irritation, make the pores, and do not get them out before they become hard.

The calamine powder and water will simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores fresh and clean and in their place a smooth skin. Those troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.—(adv.)

Your state of health largely depends upon the food you eat

No one who is physically ailing in any way can afford to take chances with the food he eats. For upon the selection of your food, and upon its perfect digestion and assimilation largely depends your state of health.

The most important thing in connection with the digestibility of any cereal food is the way it is prepared—and the length of time it is cooked or baked.

Grape-Nuts, the rich cereal food made from whole wheat flour and malted barley, is probably baked longer than any other cereal food.

A large part of the starch of the wheat and barley is changed into dextrin and grape-sugar in preparing Grape-Nuts. This is one reason why Grape-Nuts is so easily digested by even the most delicate people.

Grape-Nuts is wheat and barley so processed as to make it delicious and appetizing; even young children thrive on it and grow strong and rosy.

Go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream, or make it into a delicious pudding. It will be enjoyed and relished by every member of the family.

The Child Thou Gavest Me.

(At the Criterion.)

The Howard presents a varied program this week. Hart Intercom and Marilee are both fully biassed with music of varying moods.

The main attraction is "After the Show," William DeMille's latest Paramount picture, adapted from a story by Rita Weiman. The three central characters are portrayed by Lila Lee, Jack Holt and Charles Ogle. The story is that of folks back stage. Their joys, sorrows, are vividly related. The plot hinges around the fact that a young girl who is unsuccessful in securing work on the stage, is befriended by a kind old stage-doorwoman, who finds a job for her in the theater to give her a trial. She then meets the backer of the show—a young man who works with Wall street during the day,

Camille.

(Coming to Metropolitan.)

"Camille," the Nazimova production which will be seen at the Metropolitan next week, has been exhibited at this theater, owing to the combination of a thrilling story, exciting suspense, an all-star cast and brilliant direction.

In a good picture, Manager Patterson has found that the pictures of Richard Headrick, who, in spite of his three and one-half years, is really the star of the production.

Official Commander.

Dr. Y. S. Tsau, assistant general secretary of the delegation, was the commander-in-chief of the activities. A master of English, he was a target for all questions. Besides directing the work of getting the staff settled in the hotel, he found time to receive a large number of visitors. By noon Tsau had the satisfaction of seeing order come out of chaos and the staff prepared to get down to the real work before it.

At the Chinese legation, 19th and U streets, where the delegation was officially received Sunday night after its arrival here, Minister Tsau, one of the four official Chinese delegates to the conference, received personal calls from members of the party. It was said at the legation that no formal entertainments had been planned for this week.

Most Speak English.

Pretty Violet Phillips, who plays the semi-vampire role in Katherine Macdonald's "Her Social Value," now entertaining at the Metropolitan, is "down" on vamps for the simple reason that they always ask her in such roles when she doesn't agree with them.

But Jerome Storm, director of "Her Social Value," doesn't agree with her at all.

"Anybody with eyes like yours," he told her, when casting the production, "should be expected to see them."

Therefore, Violet does—in the films.

GROCERS' MOVE IN PACKER CASE IS SUSTAINED

The intervention filed by the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association requesting that it be made party plaintiff in the suit of the United States against the "big five" meat packers, to prohibit the packers from manufacturing foods other than meat products, has been sustained by the supreme court of the District of Columbia. It was announced Tuesday following receipt of a telegram from Hoke Smith, former senator.

The suit was instituted when former Attorney-General Palmer obtained a decree from the supreme court in February, 1920, prohibiting the packers from manufacturing any food except meat products.

Attorney-General Doughty moved for the cancellation of the decree.

Most of the members of the working delegation, quartered at the Cairo, speak English, some of them fluently, and their dress is decidedly more of the Occident than the Orient. Many of them found time this morning to take short walks in the vicinity of the hotel and they expressed admiration for the buildings and the parks. Members of the delegation made a decided impression upon the hotel employees for their alertness and ability to quickly absorb American ways.

PLAN INSPECTION OF ALL LIVE STOCK

To devise means by which the Atlanta Humane society may take steps to have the live stock of all the big Atlanta concerns inspected periodically, so that improper treatment can be eliminated, a committee was appointed at a meeting of that welfare organization Tuesday afternoon at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

The members of the committee are Mrs. T. T. Stephens, Dr. S. R. Stone and Dr. H. G. Carnes, veterinarian.

WATERWORKS IMPROVEMENT.

Decatur, Ga., November 1.—(Special) —P. P. Pilcher, city manager, is proceeding with improvements at the city waterworks according to plans suggested by him and approved by the commissioners.

Approximately $9,000 is the initial outlay in the improvements authorized, but this amount will be supplemented from time to time as the work progresses.

The improvements will furnish a water supply to meet all emergencies which may be foreseen for the next five years, will provide a storage capacity of 4,500,000 gallons above that now provided for.

Look Here, Mr. Arkwright!

There are several car crews which have been running on the North Decatur line for twelve to nearly twenty years. The patrons of the line have come to know and hold these men in high esteem.

But the point that it is hoped the authorities of the Georgia Railway and Power company have not overlooked, is the fact that patrons of the road who travel under the conduct of these crews feel a certain sense of security in being in their care, which they may not feel under the care of strangers or others who may not have impressed them so favorably.

It would seem that this is a consideration of the railway company which would not be likely overlooked.

There are many of these good men in charge of the Decatur cars, but it occurs to the writer to single out for special mention—Morgan, Sills, Ellis and Walker.

Not that they are better than many others, but that from long observation I conclude that they are as good as can be.

Chickens.

Decatur has an ordinance prohibiting all domestic animals and chickens from running at large on the streets.

It would be worth a quarter to see a policeman trying to arrest a chicken.

The truth is I believe policemen are afraid of chickens.

Water Waste.

In complaining of excessive water charges, remember that 1 month 1-32 of an inch leak will waste 5,000 gallons; 1-16 of an inch, 10,000; 1-32 sec., 20,000; 1-16 sec., 40,000; 1-1 sec., 80,000; 1-16 sec., 160,000; 1-1 sec., 320,000; 1-1 sec., 640,000; 1-1 sec., 1,280,000; 1-1 sec., 2,560,000; 1-1 sec., 5,120,000; 1-1 sec., 10,240,000; 1-1 sec., 20,480,000; 1-1 sec., 40,960,000; 1-1 sec., 81,920,000; 1-1 sec., 163,840,000; 1-1 sec., 327,680,000; 1-1 sec., 655,360,000; 1-1 sec., 1,310,720,000; 1-1 sec., 2,621,440,000; 1-1 sec., 5,242,880,000; 1-1 sec., 10,485,760,000; 1-1 sec., 20,971,520,000; 1-1 sec., 41,943,040,000; 1-1 sec., 83,886,080,000; 1-1 sec., 167,772,160,000; 1-1 sec., 335,544,320,000; 1-1 sec., 671,088,640,000; 1-1 sec., 1,342,176,160,000; 1-1 sec., 2,684,352,320,000; 1-1 sec., 5,368,704,640,000; 1-1 sec., 10,737,409,280,000; 1-1 sec., 21,474,818,560,000; 1-1 sec., 42,949,637,120,000; 1-1 sec., 85,899,274,240,000; 1-1 sec., 171,798,548,480,000; 1-1 sec., 343,597,096,960,000; 1-1 sec., 687,194,193,920,000; 1-1 sec., 1,374,388,387,840,000; 1-1 sec., 2,748,776,775,680,000; 1-1 sec., 5,497,553,551,360,000; 1-1 sec., 10,995,106,702,720,000; 1-1 sec., 21,990,213,405,440,000; 1-1 sec., 43,980,426,810,880,000; 1-1 sec., 87,960,853,621,760,000; 1-1 sec., 175,921,707,243,520,000; 1-1 sec., 351,843,414,487,040,000; 1-1 sec., 703,686,828,974,080,000; 1-1 sec., 1,407,373,657,948,160,000; 1-1 sec., 2,814,747,315,896,320,000; 1-1 sec., 5,629,494,631,792,640,000; 1-1 sec., 11,258,989,263,585,280,000; 1-1 sec., 22,517,978,527,170,560,000; 1-1 sec., 45,035,957,054,341,120,000; 1-1 sec., 90,071,914,108,682,240,000; 1-1 sec., 180,143,828,217,364,480,000; 1-1 sec., 360,287,656,434,728,960,000; 1-1 sec., 720,575,313,869,457,920,000; 1-1 sec., 1,441,150,627,738,914,840,000; 1-1 sec., 2,882,301,255,477,829,680,000; 1-1 sec., 5,764,602,510,955,659,360,000; 1-1 sec., 11,529,204,021,911,318,720,000; 1-1 sec., 23,058,408,043,822,637,440,000; 1-1 sec., 46,116,816,087,644,274,880,0

Mexican Petroleum Holds Attention in Stocks

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, November 1.—Steel shares were soft today on dispatches from Chicago to the effect that steel prices were being shaded. Mexican Petroleum also made a lower price than yesterday on the conflicting reports regarding the supply of Mexican oil. Rails and industrial stocks held steady.

Mexican Petroleum continues to be the mystery of Wall street. That stock declined from 107 yesterday to 93 3/4 early today. Yesterday a special commissioner of the Mexican treasury, now here, stated that the proposed higher Mexican export tax on oil was due to protection of home demand against invasion of salt water. Then J. P. Guffey, formerly president of Atlantic Gulf, who has just returned from Mexico, said that by March of 1922, Mexico would no longer be an important factor in the oil-producing world. This was followed by a statement by Roy R. Flamm, government oil expert connected with the department of commerce, that "the oil industry in Mexico has continued to expand, notwithstanding the application in recent years of new legislation which has been discriminatory."

All of which was followed by a statement from Mexican Petroleum officials to the effect that this year's production would be a new high record, and would be the smallest for some years to come, and that the pessimistic gossip now being circulated was for the purpose of depressing the company's shares in the open market. The recent sworn report of the company giving earnings for the first half of 1921 equal to more than $17 a share for the common stock seems to bear out the statement just made by officials of the company. Whatever the facts are about the Mexican oil situation, it is about time that they were made public by someone in authority the past six months. It is not good for either the oil industry or for the stock market.

American Hide published its earnings today for the September quarter, indicating plainly that the company had passed its crisis in the readjustment from a war to a peace-time basis. For the September quarter of 1920 there was a deficit after taxes of $1,329,000. For the September quarter of this year there was a surplus of $200,000 equal to $1.60 on the $10,000,000 outstanding preferred stock.

Atchison also reported a good statement of earnings for the month of September, gross being $20,457,000, a decrease of $1,698,000 compared with last year, but with net operating income at $5,111,000, a gain of $2,416,000. For the nine-months gross amounting to $169,000, there was a loss of $12,174,000, but net operating income of $39,417,000, or 9% larger by $24,563,000.

Sears-Roebuck was another company to make a good statement. For October that company's earnings were $17,378,000, a decrease of $2,775,000, or 15.6 cent contrasted with the same month of last year. For the ten months the figures were $147,42,000, a decrease of $65,224,000, or 13.9 cent.

Willys Overland paid off 10 per cent of the $18,000,000 bank loans maturing yesterday, and renewed the balance for eight months. These loans are held by a number of widely scattered banks.

OBSERVE THESE SIMPLE RULES

Any man, woman, girl or boy living in Georgia or any adjoining state who is not an employee of the Constitution, or the family member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.

Answers must be mailed by November 10, 1922.

Answers should be written on one side of the card, and numbered consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc.

If you desire to write your name on the card, do so on the reverse side.

Each answer, the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use hyphenated, compound or obsolete words. If either the name or the place where the word is used, the singular cannot be counted.

Words of the same spelling can be used once, even though used to denote different meanings. The same object can be named only once, however, and part of the object may also be named.

Answers to the original and nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "C" will be awarded first prize, etc.

Neatness, style, or handwriting have no bearing on the awarding of prizes.

Answers may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to each individual, and the same may be awarded to more than one of any group outside of the family, where two or more have submitted.

In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be divided among the winners.

All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless of whether or not a name is attached to them.

There will be three independent juries, having no connection with the Constitution, who will judge the answers submitted and decide the winners. The results of the game, and the announcements of the prize winners and correct list of words will be published in the Constitution, just as quickly thereafter as possible.

Former King Karl
On British Ship,
Now Faces Exile

WHITE CLAYS TESTED
BY BUREAU OF MINES

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY,

Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 1.—Ex-King

Karl and his Bourbon princess, Zita, have been taken aboard a British monitor at Raja. The warship immediately left for Galatz—another stage toward permanent exile for the pretender to the Hungarian throne, and the woman whose imperial ambitions led him to embark on his foaled campaign.

Hungary has notified the allied powers that the government accepts without condition the principle that all Habsburgs must be excluded from the throne.

The investigation, screen analysis and determinations of viscosities, sedimentation, elutriation, fusion temperatures and color developed during firing were made.

The results indicate that none of the clay samples were similar to English china clay, which, under the microscope, is seen to be composed largely of plate-like particles, whereas, the American clays, particularly secondary kaolins, contain more or less irregular or amorphous particles. The primary kaolins from North Carolina resemble English clay more closely in physical appearance than other clays, but have a much coarser grain and contain more silica than English clay.

Improved refining methods and intensive grinding may possibly produce a clay approaching closely English china clay. The North Carolina deposits, however, would be exhausted in a few years.

Although the association is only three months old, it has grown to a membership of 168. A. W. Werner is president and V. E. Green is vice president. The meeting last night was held at the residence of W. H. Howell, at 606 South Boulevard.

Time to Face the Facts

So much has been said about the use of certain medicines that have had strong influence against them. But after four years doctoring with six different doctors without results, for acute indigestion, gastritis, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, I was said to possess, I was encouraged to try what it had done for friends similarly afflicted. I was also entirely relieved of my trouble, and am sure this medicine will do all and more than it claimed for. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and relieves the intestinal gripes which are practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. J. Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.—(adv.)
